VOLUNTEERS' HOME READY FOR SERVICE

Seventy-four representative Hickory people by actual count attended the dedication of the home of the Volunteers of America at 837 Eighth avenue yesterday afternoon and all were prepared to give it hearty endorsement. The ministers taking part in the exercises were Revs. J. L. Murphy, J. G. Garth, J. D. Hart and A. L. Stanford.

Mr. Garth read a letter from Gastonia where Captain and Mrs. Coy were before coming to Hickory, recommending both to Hickory people. The guests inspected the home and found it equipped splendidly for the work, which Captain Coy explained. Captain Coy leaves today for Atlanta to attend a council of southern officers and will return Tuesday. In the meantime Mrs. Coy will be in charge of the home.

Davidson Dispatch: "Our attention has been called to the fact that in South Carolina, Prof. William Banks Dove was chosen secretary of state by a majority of 17,000 over two opponents. He had formerly held the position of assistant secretary of state. Prof. Dove is pleasantly remembered here as principal of the Lexington seminary and was the first superintendent of the graded schools, being a leader in the fight for their establishment. He married Miss Carrie Dove, of Catawba county."

A GENEROUS RAIN

Thanks to a general rain during the night, the late crops in this section were considerably helped toward maturing. Rain began falling shortly before night, but it was nearly 9 o'clock before the water came down in earnest. For almost the whole night the rain fell, and there were plenty of indications that today would be productive of rain.

RUSSIANS WILL HOLD GRIP ON MONGOLIA

(By Associated Press.)

Peking, Sept. 29.—Russia's demand that representatives of Outer Mongolia shall not be permitted to sit in the Chinese parliament is an indication that Russia does not intend to slacken the hold which it obtained upon Outer Mongolia through its treaty with China recognizing the far as domestic affairs are concerned far as domestic affairs are concerned.

With Japan encroaching upon Inner Mongolia, as is indicated by the recent riot at Chenghatun, and with Russia pressing in on Outer Mongolia, Chinese officials are especially uneasy about the intentions of these two powers, particularly in the light of the recent Russo-Japanese treaty in which the two countries agree not to interfere with each other's "special interest" in the Far east.

Prince Koudacheff, the Russian minister, represented to the foreign office that Outer Mongolia being an autonomous government naturally should not participate in the Chinese parliament but should have an assembly of its own to direct its own internal affairs.

Chinese officials have, apparently, never conceded the absolute autonomy of Outer Mongolia. The foreign office is unwilling to admit that the members designated to represent Mongolia when Parliament was first convened in 1913 should now take their seats. Furthermore the question is raised as to the validity of the Russo-Japanese treaty granting autonomy to Outer Mongolia. Republican leaders say the treaty is not valid, as Yuan Shi-kai negotiated it without the ratification of parliament. Originally twelve Outer Mongolian senators and fifteen Mongolian representatives were designated to sit in the two houses of parliament. Ten were Chinese, five Manchus and twelve Mongolians.

Russia's absolute control of Outer Mongolia is well known to all persons in official life in the Far East. Trading with the enemy regulations in Outer Mongolia is quite the same as they are in Russia. The Hutuktu of Urga, who is the real ruler of Outer Mongolia, is under absolute Russian domination.

So far Outer Mongolia has not officially stated whether it desires to be represented in the Chinese parliament. However, in view of Russia's control of Outer Mongolian affairs, it is believed that the Hutuktu will decline representation at Peking if he is called upon by Russia to make a decision in the matter.

Mr. J. P. Watt, who lives near Granite Falls, was a Hickory visitor today.

The home of the Volunteers of America here was dedicated Thursday afternoon.

NEW JITNEY SERVICE

Newton, Sept. 29.—Beginning Monday automobile service will be established between Newton and Hickory, stopping at Conover on the way. The distance is 10 miles. The car will make 5 trips daily.

The pay of the carrier in the experimental village mail delivery service which was established here several years ago, is increased this year from $600 to $690. He makes two deliveries a day, but doesn't cover all the town. The service was put in to see how it would work, and it works, and the increase in the salary would seem to indicate that it is to be permanent, and will later employ two carriers and cover the whole place.

Power was turned on Wednesday at the Long Island Cotton mill, on the Catawba river, for the first time since the flood knocked the mill out July 16. Cards are being ground this week and next week the full machinery will be in operation, very likely. It means a lot to that community and the news is received here with pleasure.
